I don't like the jukebox – I am going to tell the bar staff exactly what I think...

My friends tell me I have awful taste in music, but I disagree. I think I will play the jukebox and see what everyone thinks...

Of course we hope that everyone loves our services and facilities, but understand that not everyone will be happy with our jukebox. Whilst it is an easy mistake to make, the bar staff's big and powerful brains were not responsible for the making of the jukebox and any moans or complaints are unlikely to be met with a civil response.

By all means – please feel free to play the jukebox and share your favourite tunes. You will not be the first (or last) customer to cry if the bar staff bluntly confirm your song choice is awful, so please do not let this discourage you from frequenting our establishment.

Do the songs play in order or at random?

I have heard that catchy tune at least 10 times today on Heart radio – it must be good, perhaps I will put it on the jukebox

Good question. We don't know. If you do figure out the answer, please let us know.

We love the eclectic range of music that gets played in our pub, however we do recommend you think carefully before spending money on the jukebox that could be put towards the extensive psychiatric help you obviously need.

I love [specific artist]. I think I may select their entire back catalogue...

At the Wheatsheaf we have a fantastically diverse clientele and as such it is unlikely that many of them will share your passion for [said artist]. Whilst gratuitous violence will not be tolerated, bar staff may turn a blind eye to (or indeed, join in with) any verbal abuse that commences due to your limited song choices.

I cannot find the song I want – should I download it?

This jukebox has a HUGE database of songs that cost 1 credit to play. If you do want to hear something that is not on the database, downloading it will use further credits and will only be stored on the database for a limited time. Please don't moan – we DON'T care.

I love [specific song] so much, I think I will play it more than once...

We all remember being 12 years old and loving a song so much we played it over and over again in our bedroom, whilst dancing like a tit. Those days are gone – get over it. Over repetition of a song may result in the bar staff rejecting your tune / shouting obscenities / inflicting mild to moderate bodily harm.

I know everyone seems upbeat, but I love this beautiful, epic tune (albeit a little depressing)...

If this doesn't seem the time or the place, STEP AWAY from the jukebox you mood-killer! Other people are drinking and trying to have a good time.

I'm well into my music. I'm going to play a load of tunes, then stand by the jukebox to help everyone else with their selection

Whilst it may not be the case, the fact that other people are rushing to the jukebox whilst your playlist is still playing, probably means it's sh. As such your offering of assistance is likely to be unhelpful & unwanted, so go away.

I am big and clever. I think I may share this with everyone by making them listen to something frightfully highbrow, such as avant-garde jazz

We welcome and embrace music choices and love to hear new things, however, please note that pipe and slipper usage is not tolerated within this establishment and bar staff reserves the right to tell you to 'bore off'.

I've just searched for an incredibly famous band and I can't find any of their music on the jukebox

Whilst our jukebox is able to search through thousands and thousands of songs and artists, it will not make allowances for spelling errors or accept anything other than an exact match of a song title or artist. We appreciate it seems unfair to exclude the mentally challenged &/or alcohol impaired, therefore our staff are happy to help upon polite request
